

Certified Trainer Community

Blackboard Training

Join the Community

All active Certified Trainers are invited to take advantage of the Certified Trainer Community. The Community has been developed to act as a resource library and a way to connect with your fellow Certified Trainers. You are encouraged to use this community to further your professional development as a Certified Trainer. By networking with other professionals, you can strengthen your knowledge, expand your training techniques, and nurture your creativity. Participating in the community also helps you to stay connected with others who share your common interests in providing exemplary training.

Utilize this exclusive community to exchange ideas, share best practices, and learn new training techniques. By joining the Certified Trainer Community, you can continue to develop the activities that will support your objectives from the Certified Trainer Program.

Interested in joining the Certified Trainer Community? Email CertifiedTrainer@blackboard.com to request your account and access information.

How Membership Works

This is a private community built solely for the Certified Trainers. It is intended as a professional development outlet and a private online community for our growing list of more than 300 Certified Trainers. A valid Blackboard Certified Trainer status is required for participation. If you have any questions regarding your Certified Trainer status, please contact us at CertifiedTrainer@blackboard.com.

Members of the community received:

- 15% discount on all Training Material packages
- Access to file exchanges, idea exchange, and community updates
- Networking opportunities
- Professional development opportunities
