Provide more value for your members by delivering effective and engaging online learning programs

It is more important than ever for associations to provide measurable value to their members in order to ensure retention and foster growth. Bringing professional development and certification online increases the value of membership by making training available to members anywhere in the world, on their schedule. It can also be a significant source of revenue.

To be successful, associations must have an easy-to-use and easy-to-manage online platform that enables them to create and deliver high-quality learning and certification programs.

Why Blackboard for associations
